By the conclusion of this course, you will be well prepared for further study of macroeconomics and a more informed participant in the modern economy.

Materials: Lecture notes I've written and other handouts will be the primary source for this class. In some places it closely draws from an optional but recommended textbook—Principles of Macroeconomics (6th edition) by Greg Mankiw. Buy this used on Amazon (or another cheap edition if possible; all material is functionally identical).

Policies:Technology Policy

I aim for my classroom to be low-tech. Do not use your cell phone—put it on airplane mode. Do not use your laptop. If you need special accommodations for this rule, please email me during the first week.

Academic Integrity Policy

Cheating is strictly prohibited at the University of Oklahoma, because it devalues the degree you are working hard to get. As a member of the OU community it is your responsibility to protect your educational investment by knowing and following the rules. For specific definitions on what constitutes cheating, review the Student's Guide to Academic Integrity (<https://integrity.ou.edu/students.html>).

On examinations (unless otherwise noted) you will not be permitted to use your notes, textbooks, calculators, or any other study aids. I encourage you to work in groups for homework, but you may not simply copy work the night before it is due.

Covid Policy

We are all relying on one another keeping our distance. This is especially true if any of us is exposed to covid or presents symptoms. For this reason, I will record and post all lectures using my laptop. The quality will not be fantastic, but it will allow you to learn from a distance should you believe you are keeping the OU community safe by staying away from class temporarily.

Disability Policy

If you desire classroom/testing accommodations for a disability, contact your instructor outside of class to present the supporting documents from the University of Oklahoma Disability Resource Center, <http://www.ou.edu/drc>. Requests for accommodations for disability must be received and authorized by your instructor in written form no less than two weeks in advance of need, in order to allow adequate time to review and make appropriate arrangements. No accommodation should be assumed until authorized by your instructor.

Adjustments for Pregnancy/Childbirth Related Issues

Should you need modifications or adjustments to your course requirements because of pregnancy-related or childbirth-related issues, please contact me as soon as possible to discuss. Generally, modifications will be made where medically necessary and similar in scope to accommodations based on temporary disability. Please see www.ou.edu/content/eoo/faqs/pregnancy-faqs.html for commonly asked questions.
